Reading Short Sentences

Yesterday at 6:30 p.m., Faisal was sitting in the living room. His sister Reem was drawing a cartoon character, and their dad was cooking dinner. Outside, the wind was strong, and dark clouds were moving across the sky.

Faisal's phone rang, but he didn't answer because he was watching a video about movie scenes for school. A few minutes later, his friend texted: "Where are you?" Faisal replied, "Sorry! I was studying and I wasn't checking my messages."

Later that night, they met online. Faisal asked, "What were you doing at 7 o'clock?" His friend said, "I was helping my little brother with homework."

Read the paragraph and answer the questions:

Elena and Vicky wanted to create a short story for class. Elena decided to make the main character a brave girl, but Vicky wished the story had a funny ending. They sat together and talked quietly because the teacher was speaking. Suddenly, a small cat appeared at the classroom door. The cat looked lost and a little scared. Elena whispered, "Let's help it." Vicky nodded and smiled. They made the cat the main character of their story. In Act I, the cat was alone. In Act II, it met friendly kids. In Act III, it found its home. When they finished, they felt happy because their story had clear events and strong action verbs.
